

KITD - Brand Identity Guidelines

This is your kit

KITD is a premium wall-mounted sports gear display built for the athlete and the fan who treat their passion like a lifestyle.

Born from a simple idea. A parent packing jerseys for a game and thinking, what if we could display these properly?

KITD exists for the people who believe their kit deserves to be seen.

Not just stored. Not just worn. Displayed. Lit up. Celebrated.

EXCLUSIVE

Built for the ones
who take it seriously.

MOTIVATIONAL

Your kit on the wall.
Your drive on full display.

PASSION

For the athlete.
For the fan. For the grind.

Curves. Not Corners.

Derived from the letterform. Built into every brand element.

Corner Radius

Always use rounded corners on cards, buttons, and containers. Generous radius — never tight. 12px small

Shapes & Decorative Elements

Background shapes use curves from the D terminal. Not perfect circles. Not hard rectangles. Arcs, sweeps

Gradients Follow the Curve

Apply gradients along curved paths. The coral to orange gradient should feel like it flows — the curve

Never Hard Corner These

Buttons, tags, badges, labels, social assets, product packaging. All carry the curve language consistently

What This Is Not

Not bubble design. Not softness for softness sake. The KITD curve is athletic — like the aerodynamic curve of

The Rule:

Ask. Does this feel like the curve from the D in KITD? If yes, proceed.

FAVICON

32 px

FAVICON NOTE: At 32px use the gradient I bar as a standalone mark on dark background.
The full KITD wordmark does not scale to favicon size. The gradient I alone is the brand signal at that scale.

DO

- ✓ Use on approved dark backgrounds (#0D0D0D)
- ✓ Use on clean white or off-white backgrounds
- ✓ Always maintain the gradient on I and triangle
- ✓ Scale proportionally at all times
- ✓ Use full wordmark at larger sizes when possible
- ✓ Use transparent PNG files for all overlays

DON'T

- × Never place on busy or low-contrast backgrounds
- × Never alter or remove the gradient elements
- × Never stretch, skew, or distort the wordmark
- × Never recreate the logo in other typefaces
- × Never add drop shadows or external effects
- × Never use unapproved color combinations
